GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your inclination to scientific study will augment dramatic new results.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Try to calm your mind by remembering that some circumstances are beyond your control.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't be too seduced by promises, but rather wait and see if they are followed up with the appropriate action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You find yourself playing host to a large group of adoring guests. Revel in these moments of fun and frivolity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Remember that the downside of being free as the breeze is that it leaves you without a support system.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) A stranger whom you meet will inspire you to re-examine a fundamental premise in your belief system.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) Although your theories are highly entertaining, you may find that they're not universally welcome. Don't let a smooth talker delude you with cheap promises.

ACES ON BRIDGE

By Bobby Wolff

At rubber bridge, most would play today's deal in clubs. At duplicate, where trick score is important, some would use artificial methods to reach more lucrative no-trump contracts. To-most of the bids had an artificial meaning. After South's routine opening, North bid two spades to promise a long club suit. Without good clubs, opener would have rebid three clubs, which responder might pass. With a good fit, opener rebid two no-trump. Assured of the good club fit, North tested a no-trump game if South had good stoppers in the red suits. So he bid three spades to promise a high honor in spades. South then closed shop, bidding the no-trump game. After West's heart lead went to East's queen and South's ace, how should South play? If he risks all on the routine club finesse, he loses to East's king, and the heart return nets the defense a quick one down. But that is a piggish way to play the hand. Having reached the excellent matchpoint contract, South should be willing to forgo the 50-50 club finesse. Instead, he should lead his club queen, and when West plays low, South should play the ace. In today's layout, the king drops and all is well. However, if West were still holding the king, South would still enjoy a great matchpoint score. To protect his heart jack, he could safely concede a club to West, winning at least 10 tricks for a super result.
